PPE Procurement Guide and Contact List

AmCham has created the following guide to help U.S. entities procure personal protective equipment (PPE) from China. The breakdown is as follows:

1. Step-by-step PPE procurement from China guide.
2. Best practices when sourcing from China.
3. Contact list of suppliers / traders, lawyers, logistics providers, third-party quality control auditors, and financial service providers.

The following guide is not all-inclusive. It has been compiled from discussions with member companies that have procurement experience. Please reach out to daniel.rechtschaffen@amcham-shanghai.org with any questions or for assistance with requests, orders or donations.

1. Step-by-Step PPE Procurement Guide

Please note that additional steps may be necessary depending on your specific situation. Please refer to the contact list in part 3 of this guide to connect with suppliers/traders, lawyers, logistics providers, third-party quality control auditors and financial service providers.

Steps		Contact Organization	Notes
1	Find an FDA-certified PPE supplier	AmCham Shanghai	Inquire on pricing from several vendors; these are usually trading companies and/or middlemen in the supply chain. They confirm rough pricing, as pricing is changing every 48-72 hours both for products and shipping.
2	Audit: Basic due diligence, FDA/CE certification, tax status, commercial licensing	Law firm	Steps 2-4 can be condensed and performed by a “consultant” or “middleman” who performs reasonable assurance over the claims being made by the factories.
3	Get a product and FOB price quote	PPE suppliers / logistics provider	Many suppliers can organize freight forwarding and shipment for buyers and bundle it in the price. In the cases where they can't, buyers will need to contact a logistics company.
4	Optional: Conduct a third-party quality control audit	Third-party quality control auditors	As mentioned, AmCham has not independently conducted quality control audits on our suppliers. AmCham member companies have verified the bona fides of our suppliers but we still recommend that you conduct your own audit if time permits.
5	Sign contract	Buyer / PPE supplier / bank / logistics provider	Steps 5-7 are usually done through a vendor/trading company. A purchase order and sometimes proof of funds is sent to the vendor who then discusses a production timeline with factories and provides the customer: (1) Price of goods, and; (2) vendor/trading company services cost, which typically include: A. Following up with customers, factory contracts and orders; B. Collecting foreign exchange and handling tax refunds (but shall not ensure the success or

			failure, in accordance with the policies of the state); C. Communicating with the factory about the time of returning the goods to the factory and the transportation arrangement of the goods. (Note: the expenses incurred are not included. Costs cannot be determined according to the actual factory address and the size of the goods); D. Managing all shipping documents and Customs declarations. (Note: Customs declaration fees are not included); E. Communicating with logistics companies on the actual shipping time and transportation information; F. Providing all Customs clearance information. (Note: Customs duties may arise, depending on the circumstances); G: Providing shipping and related charges from the factory to the port estimate; H: Estimating shipping costs from Chinese port to port of destination if the US client does not already have a preferred shipper. (Note: these are given as a rough cost as prices are increasing).
6	Place order and wire payment	Buyer / PPE supplier / bank	Because of market demand, many PPE suppliers are now asking for a 50% deposit upfront and 100% payment upon shipment. Market demand is also resulting price gouging in many cases.
7	Export / clear China Customs	PPE supplier / logistics company	Many suppliers can organize China Customs clearance and shipment for buyers and bundle it in the price. In the cases where they can't, buyers will need to contact a logistics company.
8	Import / clear U.S. Customs	Logistics provider / law firm	U.S. customers need to be aware when importing to the U.S. that several types of medical supplies — for example, KN95 masks — are being stopped or denied entry by U.S.

			Customs. The burden is on the U.S. customer to confirm the items can be imported. It is important to state clearly what the product will be used for and for the U.S. customer to verify it can be used on their end. We have seen cases where a KN95 mask shipment imported for “Industrial/Civic use” has been allowed in, while the same mask destined for a medical facility has been refused entry by U.S. Customs due to FDA requirements. Be aware of serious contradictions between the FDA and CDC on what PPE supplies can and cannot be used or imported.

2. Sourcing from China Best Practices

The following is a list of best practices to keep in mind when sourcing from China during ordinary market operations. Please note that not all may be applicable if sourcing PPE during the COVID-19 pandemic.

1. Manufacturers Only: Try to avoid middleman trading companies pretending to be factories.
2. Accredited Factories & Products: Thoroughly vet the certifications as genuine. Also, a factory should provide multiple samples in advance for end-user inspection and approval. The factory must be held accountable to produce exactly as sampled and per specification.
3. People’s Republic of China Export Permitted: Ensure China government allows this product by this vendor specifically to be exported to the U.S. at this time.
4. References: The vendor must provide multiple client references and those should be followed-up on for commentary.

The American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai
上海美国商会

5. Third-Party Quality Control: An auditor needs to be on site during and after production to ensure adherence to specifications, quality standards and that it is on schedule for committed to completion date milestones.
6. Sales Contract: Any contract should be reviewed by an experienced global supply chain practitioner to ensure it is detailed and includes enough protection clauses to prevent errors due to incompetence or trickery. Quality of Workmanship, Adherence to Specifications, Price Consistency and On-Time Finishing Production must all be written into the contract. Penalties and/or rewards could also be written into the contract to ensure on time performance.
7. Logistics: Should generally be controlled by the U.S. purchaser and budgeted for either air freight, sea freight or sea/air combination.
8. Payment: Should be either a Letter of Credit, which is rigid and bureaucratic but protects all parties, or a maximum 20% deposit. (NB: For sourcing PPE during the COVID-19 pandemic, a much higher deposit is often requested.)
9. U.S. Customs Duty: Parties should verify present import duty rates and check if they must pay punitive duties or could seek exemption.
10. Priorities: Amongst the various State or local purchasers, it would be logical to have a coordinated order of urgency, or else orders could be chaotic.
11. China+n: It would be helpful to have multiple countries of origin to source from where possible.

3. PPE Procurement Contact List

AmCham Shanghai has collated a list of personal protective equipment (PPE) suppliers, lawyers, logistics providers and financial service companies that can help with PPE procurement from China. This list will be updated as we gain more contacts.

Please note that as of March 31, all entities must receive a registration license from the National Medical Product Association (NMPA) to export certain products for medical purposes. Many suppliers are in the process of applying for NMPA registration. Please contact suppliers directly to ask if they have received their license. This regulation does not affect export of PPE for non-medical purposes. Please see here for the Ministry of Commerce announcement of the regulation as well as the list of NMPA-approved manufacturers (without contact numbers).

Please note that the following PPE suppliers and traders have been recommended by AmCham Shanghai member companies. AmCham Shanghai has not independently verified the suppliers but can connect interested parties with third-party auditors.
